Remember
To set goals for yourself. What do you want to achieve? How will you get there?

Remember
That all emotions are normal. Everyone in the whole world feels them.

Remember
non verbal communication. You can communicate things without speaking.

Remember
To take a mindful minute
What can I hear?
What can I smell?
What can I taste?
What can I touch?

Remember
To be here now and think about the present moment. No future worries and no past regrets. Be mindful.

Choose a greeting

I have seen a few of these videos around this week on Facebook where a child chooses a greeting when coming into class. The teacher respects the child's choice and carries out that greeting. So if a child chooses 'hug' the teacher hugs the child. If the child chooses 'high five' then the teacher gives a high five.

I have made one without the hug too because although I do think it very sad I do know of schools that do not allow hugging.

I have also see this with a child being chosen as a greeter which also is a great way for positive interaction each morning.

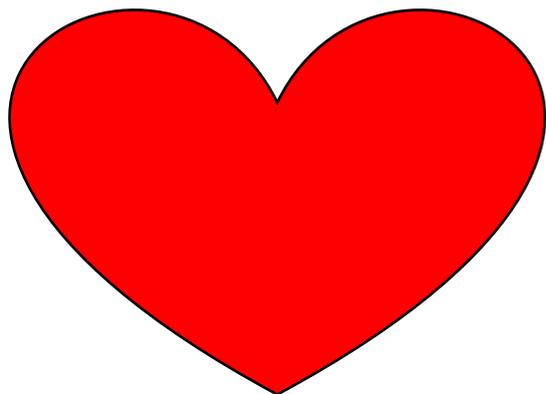

I have chosen to do 3 greetings with body contact and 3 that are non contact, the alternate sheet has 4 non contact and 2 with body contact.

A fabulous lesson on learning about touch and permission to touch. A great way of learning social skills and helping children to interact with each other or with the teacher.

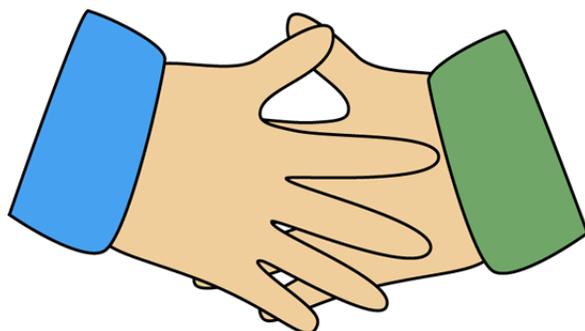

Print out the poster and put it near your door so children can choose the greeting they prefer.
